NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON SCIENCE & RELIGION IN CANADA

FROM SEA TO SEA ... TO SKY!

Not long ago, Canada's Governor General lamented the great cultural divide between mainstream science and the beliefs of various communities in our great country. The Canadian Scientific and Christian Affiliation (CSCA) seeks to bring science-faith conversations to a more fruitful level. Many Canadian scientists, working in government laboratories, public and private universities, industry, and medicine are Bible-believing Christians and participate fully in the international scientific community.

CSCA is holding a conference dealing with science and Christianity in Canada at, and co-hosted by, Trinity Western University, May 11 – 14, 2018. This conference will include Canadians in science, speakers dealing with issues relevant to our theme, and talks on science and Christian faith in general.

The conference, running from Friday dinner through Monday lunch, will include morning devotions and a Sunday morning worship service. For those unable attend the entire conference, single-day tickets are available, and the Saturday evening gala can be attended as a stand-alone event (featuring top Climate Scientist Katharine Hayhoe: www.skygala.com). The conference fees are low to moderate, with discounted on- and off-campus lodging options. Those who also attend the nearby Regent College Pastors' Conference (May 9-11, ending with lunch) will receive a 25% conference registration discount for both conferences! A number of scholarships are available to cover student admission, meals, lodging, and travel.
